

GREETINGS:

With this year drawing to a close, at which time we review the happenings therein, we wish to convey our appreciation of the pleasant business relations sustained in the past.

It is our further wish that the incoming year of 1916 will bring you continued prosperity.

A
Happy New Year to all.

Miss Agnes Stewart is spending the vacation at her home in Modesto.

Margaret Hinchliffe came down from Stanford last week for her vacation.

Miss Evelyn Spellman of San Francisco is the guest of Miss Violet Saunders.

The E. C. Merrill family ate Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Merrill.

Mrs. Hall entertained Mrs. Mary Palmer, Mr. Brady and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy at dinner, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Glover left Monday for Riverside to spend a week's vacation with their son, R. L. Glover.

Rev. J. F. Wilson and children were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralston Alison Monday, Lois remaining for the week.

Miriam Blaine was brot home from the hospital Friday afternoon and is recovering nicely from her recent operation.

Mrs. Winans, who is staying with Ruth and Raymond Cowles, is spending the week in Pacific Grove with a friend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Collins are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Fred Bohman. They have spent the past month at Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Thomas spent Christmas day in Oakland with Mrs. Thomas' sister, going up in their machine.

Correspondence cards are correct for the acknowledgment of Christmas gifts and greetings. Harry Smith has a neat assortment.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gard and Lillian left Sunday by auto for Porterville and other stops in the valley, and are spending the week.

Mrs. C. D. Burke and baby are visiting Mrs. Burke's family, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fablinger. Mr. Burke was here for a few days but has returned to their home at Turlock.

Miss Lucy Joy has returned from McCloud Hospital where she has been studying for some months and will remain until spring. Mrs. Joy and Alice spent Christmas here.

Mrs. John Gratton and two sons, Eugene and Ralph, left Friday for their home in Broomfield, Colorado. Leland will remain with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Easton Carter were down from Palo Alto to spend Christmas with their families. Mrs. Carter was leader at the C. E. Sunday evening which seemed quite her proper place.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Olds entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Alexander for Christmas dinner. Their son, C. E. Olds, returned to St. Paul, Minn., Tuesday. His wife and little son will remain until summer.

Mrs. Castle who has suffered for two years from a growing cataract is again able to see quite well. She spent some time in San Francisco having an operation and treatments, and is well pleased with results.

Among the Christmas guests at the Methodist parsonage were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lloyd, Ralph, Clare and Delmas Lloyd, and Mr. and Mrs. James Dayton, of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hilton of Lafayette, and Miss Jessie Beal of Point Richmond.

Betrothal Announced

Cards have been received announcing the betrothal of Miss Elizabeth May Sargent and Mr. George Louis Parso. The wedding is to take place early in the fall.

Old rivals met Christmas Day

The local High School five met and defeated the San Martin boys Christmas afternoon by a score of 36-21. The first half was featured by the snappy passwork of the Campbell five and the half ended 26-8 in Campbell's favor. In the second half both teams roughed it up a good deal and the game was slowed up considerably. Cramer led in the scoring while Feathers starred at guard for Campbell, Campbell line-up was—Oliver and Cramer, forwards; Righter, center; Bydekarken and Feathers, guards.

Capt. Bydekarken has scheduled a game with the Santa Clara Baracas for New Year's Day. This team is composed of former Santa Clara High school stars and will keep the boys hustling. They defeated the Sunnyvale team by practically the same score as Campbell which seems to point to a close game. Several of the locals have been out of the game on account of injuries but they expect to have their full strength New Years.

Annual Banquet

The annual banquet of the Campbell Improvement Club will be held at the dining hall of the Methodist church on the evening of January 7th.

The good cooks of the Ladies' Aid will furnish the "big eats" and it is certain that all will enjoy the occasion.

The program committee has a most interesting program planned. It is here given.

A representative of this office was invited to see the interior of the Post-Office Friday morning just before the rural carriers began to go out. One auto was being loaded, while the other carriers were still sorting, and the outgoing mail sacks had just been locked up.

The spacious room was piled with mail every where, six clerks having been at work for over three hours, and quantities of mail had already been delivered thru the window and the boxes. Packages, too large for the mail boxes were stacked knee deep behind, and an incoming train was bringing about twenty sacks more.

Two of the routes that were to be combined with San Jose, each had a full auto load, and every one was wondering what the poor individual would do. And parcel post just in its infancy! The past week has been the record week for both incoming and outgoing mail, although there has been a steady growth heretofore.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Our patrons have been very good to us during 1915. This has been called a "hard year," but our business has shown a consistent increase. We believe the same to be true of other Campbell stores. In fact, we think that, in proportion to the capital invested, there is more business done in Campbell than in the average large city. Campbell folks as a class are loyal to the home town. Let's keep it up. In the meantime we will try to do our part in making home trading more interesting, more worth while, by studying your wants and improving our service.

ENDED THE ARGUMENT

REALLY THERE WAS VERY LITTLE MORE TO SAY.

Cupid Simply Had Repeated and Daughter Preferred to Do as Mother Did Instead of as She Was Being Advised.

"Listen to me, Abigail," said Mrs. Wise to her daughter. "Remember, please, that I'm older than you. Wisdom comes only with age."

"Yes, mamma."

"Why are you so cold to Mr. Willing—so distant?"

"Am I?"

"He says so. He has my indorsement as a suitor."

"Yes. He proposed."

"What answer did you make?"

"I declined. But he said he wouldn't take that as final."

"Of course not! He'll persist—with my consent, child. Why did you refuse to go motoring with him? He is dissatisfied over your manner, which I fear isn't nice. Has he done anything to offend?"

"He wanted to kiss me."

"And didn't? You refused? Child, when a man pays court to a woman—to a girl—and is serious about it—when his intentions are honorable—there's no harm in a kiss."

"But, mamma, isn't a kiss something that should be mutual?"

"What do you mean?"

"Should a girl let a man kiss her when she has no wish to kiss the man?"

"Certainly, when the man is a man of character and honorable purposes. You mustn't forget that such a match as you can make isn't the fortune of every girl. If your dear father were with us, he'd advise you as I'm advising you."

"Is a girl to marry a man much older than she is because he's honorable and has money?"

"Perhaps not solely, dear. But Mr. Willing isn't so old. Only forty-five."

"And I'm twenty. When I'm forty-five—which you say isn't so old—and he is still alive, if I should marry him, he will be seventy. Surely that's old enough!"

"Abigail! What nonsense! What has arithmetic to do with it?"

"But figures tell the truth, mamma. You were twenty when you married papa, weren't you? I think you told me so."

"Yes."

"And he was twenty-two?"

"Yes."

"And you were both poor in worldly goods, and grandma wanted you to marry a rich baker, who wanted you—"

"But, my child, you don't realize that times and manners are very different now—very different. Now everything is money—everybody wants money—and persons without money are absolutely submerged."

"But people fall in love still, don't they—young people?"

"They may think they're in love sometimes, child, but life these days dissipates romance. Look at the divorce courts."

"But I'm talking about a man I don't care a box of candy about. When you were of my age, you no doubt thought just as I'm thinking now. You've even told me you eloped with papa to escape marrying an old man. You were in love."

"You aren't in love. And the situation is different."

"Yes. The situation is different. But I am in love."

"In love! With whom?"

"With Charley Lyman."

"That boy? With no money, no position, no—"

"But haven't we money enough?"

"Fudge! What foolishness! And I let you go to the tennis court with that chap yesterday!"

"We didn't go to the tennis court."

"Where did you go, then?"

"We—we got married."—Judge.

Nova Scotia's History.

When discovered by the British in 1497-98 Nova Scotia was not named. A few years later it was settled by the French, who called it Acadia. It passed to the English by the treaty of Utrecht, in 1713, and they changed the name from Acadia to Nova Scotia. This name was first used in a grant made by King James I, who was born in Scotland, and chose a name in honor of his native country. The royal grant under the name was made to Sir William Alexander, a Scotchman, who wrote poor poetry, and was created Lord Stirling by King James.

Their Relationship.

"Are you sisters?" asked the census taker of two colored women who sat on the tiny porch of their cabin.

"No, sir," one of the women replied, "us ain' no blood kin. You see"—pointing to a rather pretentious-looking house on the hill—"hit's dis er way: Sanders up dar in de white house, he married me fust; den Sis' Liza heah come 'long, an he 'vorsted me an' put me out heah in de cabin so he could marry her. But bimbeys he fetch her down de hill to de cabin to make room for dat young gal, Cora, he done married. No, sir, us ain' no blood kin—I guess we's wives-in-law."

A Fairyland of Nature

TURRETED CASTLES

THE Black Hills of South Dakota and Wyoming, which are in fact mountains rising from the great plains to an elevation of 7,000 or more feet above sea level, were millions of years ago, a small, low island, surrounded by a vast shallow sea. This sea extended as far west as the Rocky mountains, which were mere highlands rising above it, writes Guy E. Mitchell in the Utica Saturday Globe.

The average traveler today, much less the bandits and Indians who have in recent years infested this elevated region, would probably, according to their various nationalities, smile grimly or laugh to scorn the statement that this portion of the country, now so arid and barren, was once the ocean, and later a vast tropical swamp, among whose rank and luxuriant vegetation lurked strange and huge reptiles, and on the shores of which roamed giant herbivorous animals, which were in turn preyed upon by the terrible flesh-eating monsters of the early world. Such, however, is the fact as attested by the vast quantities of fossilized bones which have been found imbedded in the rocks and many of which are now mounted in lifelike attitudes in various museums of the country.

Following this age of sea and swamp the whole region was uplifted thousands of feet by the dynamic forces from within the earth; the hills became mountains and the bed of the reached. The fact that many of these fantastic structures appear to be falling into ruin in no way detracts from the romantic charm of the scene; such indeed seems in harmony with the silent, deserted aspect of the region. Fortress after fortress and embattlement after embattlement meet the eye from different positions as the traveler wanders here and there through the Bad Lands, some sadly in need of repair—long abandoned in the imagination—others standing out bold and sharp against the clear blue Dakota sky. Hardly can there be anything more impressive than the vast silence and great desolation of the Bad Lands.

Over most of the region few living things can be seen. Here and there, in some favored hollow, a stunted tree clings desperately to existence, and animal life is equally scarce. A few springs support a little vegetation, vividly green in contrast with the surrounding grays, blues, pinks and olive shades of the rocks, while in two or three places animals are found. A high ridge of some extent located near the center of the region, and representing probably the original level of the old plateau, has sufficient soil and fertility to support a scanty growth of grass and on this live considerable numbers of the great Rocky Mountain Bighorn, the noblest of American wild sheep. This ridge is some 500 feet above the rest of the Bad Lands, and is known as Sheep ancient sea, long since turned to stone, became a lofty plateau. Then the rivers began their slow work of cutting, carving and dissecting this tableland. The result today is that wonderful region of several hundred square miles east of the Black Hills, known as "The Big Bad Lands," where nature has chiseled the soft rocks into thousands of strange of curious shapes. The cloudbursts of spring and summer which visit the Bad Lands create innumerable rivers, from small rills to raging torrents, whose rushing waters cut deep into the old ocean bed—layers of hardened sand and clay—carrying it into most startling shapes and forms. There is a bewildering variety, a kaleidoscopic change from every different viewpoint. The Bad Lands are not, as might be supposed from the name, somber and desolate in appearance. Bad they are for the unwary traveler's comfort, even indeed his safety, since the watering places are few and far between.

Chaos of Rugged Shapes.

Different from the titanic carvings of nature, such as the great canyon of the Colorado, which has been cut largely by a single river running ceaselessly through the endless centuries, the Bad Lands present a fine network of comparatively minute sculpturing, in hundreds rather than thousands of feet, the result of intermittent erosion. Neither does the wanderer's eye rest on any forests, glittering lakes, or green meadows. Instead, there is a veritable chaos of rugged and grotesque shapes fashioned by the rains and the winds out of the crumbly rocks, softly tinted with many hues. The bright western sun reflects the light from thousands of glittering pyramids, towers, galleries, and cathedral spires, all bare of vegetation, but casting back in subdued shades every color of the rainbow.

No land of fable could picture a greater variety of fairy castles, with watch towers, battlements and turrets, impregnable strongholds built on lofty cliffs, commanding the country around, until the domain of the next lofty castle or nestling chateau is mountain. What a vast amount of washing and erosion of the rock and what endless centuries of time must have elapsed to have cut away the thousands of square miles which now spread below this elevated remnant of the sea bed! From Sheep Mountain the views in all directions comprise the most notable Bad Lands scenery in the world. Below lies the shattered and fantastic fragment of the once great plateau, curved and cut and twisted into thousands of queer and eerie shapes. There are groups of great gray birdlike forms; there are things with long necks and heads that resemble ostriches; there are shapes that might be taken for herds of some monstrous, unknown animals, and gardens of giant mushrooms; even profiles and full views of the human face that might surely, from their appearance, have been sculptured by clever workmen of some forgotten race, so perfect are the expressions of these heroic statues—all carved, however, by the rain and the wind blowing the sand particles against the soft rock.

Once Teemed With Life.

Absolutely deserted as are the Bad Lands today, except for the occasional traveler, this great plateau, in the very long ago, when the world was very young, was teeming with animal life. No such animals are alive today; only their smaller descendants. The huge Titanotherium, which fed upon the luxuriant growth of almost tropical vegetation with which the Bad Lands were at one time clothed, would have made the largest rhinoceros of the present age look like a suckling pig. This antediluvian monster was 14 feet long and stood nine feet high. Other monsters were the Oredon and the Elatherium, while a great cat or panther-like tiger preyed upon the herb eaters of the time. The bones of hundreds of these animals have been found imbedded in the rock strata of the Bad Lands. The region has ever been renowned as a veritable storehouse of the fossil skeletons of these prehistoric animals which lived hundreds of centuries before the epoch of the first man.

FAMOUS OLD CLOCK

Invention of John Muir That Was a Wonder.

Not Only Effectually Aroused Sleeper, but Could Be Arranged to Start Fire and Deliver Books When Wanted.

The famous clock of the late John Muir, the noted naturalist and explorer, which not only woke him up in the morning, but dumped him out of bed; which delivered his books to him in regular sequence when he was studying and which lighted his fire in the morning, has just been presented to the Wisconsin State Historical society's museum at Madison by the Wisconsin Alumni Association of Northern California. The Milwaukee Journal gives the following account, with illustration, of that extraordinary clock:

The clock was used by Muir during his school days at Wisconsin university in the early sixties. Because of his desire to work, he kept late hours and found it hard to get up. First he tried tying a string to his toe and having the janitor pull it at 5 a. m. This worked until some of the students nearly pulled him out of bed. Then he built a clock which would do the work.

He built a bed of pine boards with three legs, two at the head and one at the foot. The leg at the foot was in two sections and operated on an elbow. This elbow was held by a peg so that if the peg was released the bed would drop to an angle of 45 degrees. A strong cord, fastened to the peg, led to the clock; on the end of the cord near the clock was a large stone. Before retiring the cord was attached to the clock and at five the clock would do its deadly work. The noise of John falling out of bed and the falling stone awakened everyone in the building.

While teaching in a country schoolhouse he used the clock to start a fire before he arrived at school. The clock upset a tube of sulphuric acid into a mixture of chlorate of potash and sugar placed under the kindling and wood the night before. Instant combustion took place.

He also used the clock to open and shut his books when he wished to study. By arranging his books in a small car which operated on his study table they arranged themselves in a certain order and were placed before him at a stated time by the movement of the clock.

Material for Briquettes.

Peat and chalk are being extensively used, it is reported, for briquetting in Canada. The peat is mixed with coal breeze and then pressed into briquettes. Such a fuel has been found efficient and economical. Chalk, also, of which there are large deposits in Canada, can be pulverized and then combined with a certain percentage of breeze and solidified tar, the mixture being compressed into small briquettes or pebbles about the size of an egg. The briquettes burn with perfect satisfaction. The fuel has the advantage of being smokeless, has a high calorific value and burns freely.

Madame Joffre.

She, who had never been separated from her husband, not even for a day, before the war, has since the war broke out, never been to see him, although the general staff's headquarters are scarcely a couple of hours outside of Paris. It is against the rules for a soldier to see his wife, or for a wife to try to visit her husband at the front, therefore, although Madame Joffre has every facility for doing so, she will never go to see her husband. She does not avail herself of any privilege granted through her position, but makes a point of setting the example.—From a Paris Letter.

SWEETS FOR THE AFTERNOON

Some Novelties That Almost Any Woman Can Make for the Delight of Guests.

The search for the unusual occupies the time, or a big portion of it, of many men and women. Men who are running tiny "fancywork" shops, men who are managing huge manufacturing plants, women who spend most of their life in the pursuit of society, and women who spend it managing simply their own homes, all must seek novelties.

Here are some suggestions of unusual sweets that may interest the woman who tries to furnish tempting yet inexpensive food.

It is easy enough to buy a bit of French pastry at the confectioner's to give an unusual air to the afternoon tea tray—if one is willing to pay the bill. Here is a cheap dainty that will vie with those from the best confectioner: Make a rich, slightly sweetened biscuit dough and form it into small rounds. In the center of each place a pitted, stewed prune and pull up the edges to cover the prune entirely. Bake quickly a golden brown and serve hot.

For banbury tarts make good pie crust and roll it thin. Cut it into big circles, and in each place a spoonful of filling, bring the edges together and bake brown. Serve either hot or cold. To make the filling, mix a cup of seeded raisins, a cup of sugar, the juice and grated rind of a lemon and a beaten egg; cook for a few minutes until the egg thickens and cool before using.

To make stuffed cookies roll good sugar-cooky dough thin and cut in rounds. On half the rounds place a spoonful of the banbury-tart filling, put the other rounds over those with the filling, pinch the edges together and bake until done.

Make gingerbread of the soft variety with three-quarters of a cup of orange juice substituted for some of the other liquid. Bake it in muffin tins and serve with whipped cream.

KITCHEN "KINKS" OF VALUE

Good Substitute for Eggs When They Are Scarce—To Separate Whites From Yolks.

When eggs are scarce a teaspoonful of cornstarch can be made to take the place of one egg. When combined with eggs it makes puddings, cakes and pies lighter.

When the whites of eggs are used and the yolks are not wanted for several days, beat them up with a little cold water and put them away in a cool place. They will keep good for quite a while. If they are to be used for salad dressing the water must not be added.

When separating the whites from the yolks of eggs one will sometimes break the yolk into the white, in which case the whites do not beat light. Dip a clean cloth into warm water, wring dry, touch the yolk which has been dropped into the white with the cloth and it will cling to the cloth.

If you wish to save the shells, break away just enough of the smaller end of the shell to remove the contents. Then carefully wash the shells and put them away in a safe place. Later you may fill these shells with jelly, covering the broken end with paraffin paper. This is a convenient way to carry jelly for lunches.

Parsnip Cakes.

Take one large cupful of mashed parsnips, half a teaspoonful of salt, one egg, a heaping teaspoonful of good baking powder, in one cupful of flour and three-quarters of a cupful of milk. Stir the mixture till it is a smooth batter; then have some fat in a frying pan half an inch deep and drop the batter into it by spoonfuls. Brown it nicely on one side, then turn it. The cakes will be found most delicate and may be eaten alone or with any other course.

Satisfactory Sprinkling.

Here is a method for sprinkling clothes which will be found very satisfactory. This saves a lot of trouble and prevents the hands from getting chapped in cold weather. Take an ordinary cork and cut a small fluting in it lengthwise. Fill a glass bottle with water and put the cork in it. When the bottle is shaken the fluted cork acts as a spray, sprinkling the water evenly over the clothes.

Egg Sauce.

Egg sauce made in this way is delicious. Beat the whites of three eggs stiff. Beat the yolks until creamy and sweeten with three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Just before serving fold in the stiff whites and serve immediately.

Italian Stew.

One pound ground round steak, cook ten minutes; one can tomatoes, few potatoes cut in cubes, cook ten minutes more couple of onions cut up; cook about two cupfuls of spaghetti in boiling water for 15 minutes, then put in stew.

Removing Top From Milk Bottle.

It is often hard to get the top out of the milk bottle without a deluge. The next time it sticks use the point of a can opener for the purpose. A large pin is also effective.

Good to Know.

To bake potatoes quickly boil them in salted water for ten minutes, then put in the oven. The boiling water will heat them through so they cook in a short time.

CAP and BELLS.

PROUD MOMENT FOR SPEEDER

Man Under Arrest Wanted His Friends to Listen to Testimony of Policeman in Court.

"You are charged with speeding." "Impossible, your honor!" "The policeman who arrested you says you were traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour." "Indeed? I wish some of my friends were here." "Haven't you money enough to pay your fine?" "Oh, yes, your honor. They have made so many uncomplimentary remarks about my car that it would be a source of much satisfaction to me if they could hear this policeman's testimony."

Too Painful.

"Did you visit Vesuvius the last time you were in Italy?" "No," replied the traveled man. "Not interested, eh?" "That wasn't the reason. I knew that if I saw so much steam going to waste in Vesuvius the memory of the trouble I have every winter in persuading the janitor to heat my apartments sufficiently would make me bitter."

Vexatious.

"I presume every man has a little Ananias club of his own." "No doubt. Still, I find it rather difficult to keep tab on the members in mine." "Yes?" "Every now and then some fellow who has been a member of my Ananias club for years puts over a hard luck story on me and I lend him money."

The Right Ratio.

"I suppose the world has need of pessimists." "No doubt. They are the leaven of life, so to speak." "I don't quite agree with your definition, but by striking a happy medium between the snarl of pessimists and the cheerful idiocy of optimists one is enabled to appraise life at its true value."

Dense Ignorance.

"If there is anything that makes me tired it is an egregious landlubber finding fault with the United States navy." "I know the type. He's the sort of fellow who thinks the captain's bridge is a private gangplank."

COLD-BLOODED.

Artist—Say, I've got some of the funniest pictures you ever saw. Magazine Editor—Really! Where did you have them taken?

Perquisites.

"Will you leave office poorer than when you entered it?" "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "It is a mistake to say that a republic is ungrateful to its servants. A republic will loosen up all right, if you know how to convey a gentle reminder when a tip is due."

But It Didn't.

"That will do, Henry," said Mrs. Twobble, coldly. "The yarn you are telling me won't hold water." "I wasn't trying to make it hold water, my love," replied Mr. Twobble, somewhat peevishly. "I hoped it would hold you for a while."

Valued Seclusion.

"Do you enjoy your magnificent new library?" "Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox; "for a while I didn't get much good out of it. But you don't know what a nice, quiet place it is to try out the latest records on the phonograph."

Avoiding Temptation.
Cholly—Quick! This way! Here comes my tailor! Algy—I never knew you to dodge your tailor before. Cholly—Yass, but this time I have money and might be tempted to pay him—New York Weekly.

Dr. James Coming

Interest in the Indian is growing more rapidly as he fades away. Time was when there were from 250,000 to 500,000 Indians in California alone. Stephen Powers, an authority appointed by the Government, asserts that a hundred years ago there were not less than 700,000 Indians on the plains, hillsides, mountains, seaside and Islands of the Golden State.

One of the closest and best informed authorities in America today on the Indians of California and the southwest generally is Dr. George Wharton James, the eminent author, traveler and lecturer. He will tell the people of Campbell Thursday night at 7:45, what he has found the Indian really to be. Those who were fortunate enough to have heard him at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco, where he lectured to upwards of half a million people know what a treat is in store, for he is a convincing speaker, interesting beyond measure, full of anecdote, story, wit and humor, and has a voice that is delightful for everybody to hear.

At the same time you will have the additional pleasure of hearing Captain Tom Odock, the last chief of one of the Northern California tribes, tell of his people, sing some of their songs, and tell of their remarkable traditions, myths and legends.

His daughter, Irene, a cultured and well educated woman, will give her own "Plea For the Indian", a plea that has touched the hearts of thousands and that was declared by Dr. David Starr Jordan to be a most remarkable human document to come from any one and especially so, emanating from an Indian. A most enjoyable program is assured, and as admission is free every one ought to be there. A silver offering for the Indian work will be taken up. Dr. James is a Director of the Indian Board of Co-operation and his lecture tour is under the auspices of that organization.

Methodist Church Notes

Who knows where we can borrow a cornet for use in the orchestra? Or is there one around somewhere for sale pretty cheap?

The Ladies' Aid surprised Mrs. Lloyd with a Christmas gift of a fine White Rotary sewing machine, just the kind she had been suggesting to the preacher for some time as a desirable acquisition any time he felt able to invest. Mrs. Lloyd appreciates the machine, and the preacher thinks of the ladies with a sense of grateful relief. Any time they want some wood split, or help in eating a chicken, just let them call on the preacher.

In response to a request from Grandpa Brown, a number of our young people went over to his house Sunday evening after church and sang some gospel songs for him, much to his satisfaction.

The special services are being fairly well attended this week. The interest is very good, and we are looking forward to a fine time Friday evening. On that evening, we begin at 8:30. The first hour will be devoted to a general program with addresses by several lay members. This will be followed by a social hour in charge of the Epworth League. The closing hour will be devoted to the religious exercises of the Watch-night service, ending at midnight.

The pastor will speak morning and evening, Sunday. There will be an opportunity to unite with the church in the morning. Miss Amy Farley will have charge of the League meeting at 6:30.

The monthly meeting of the Official Board will be held Wednesday evening at the close of the usual mid-week service.

Cleaned House

A few mothers responded to the invitation of the Home and School Club and appeared at the school house Tuesday morning, armed with pails, scrub brushes and other paraphernalia of house-cleaning.

The desks and seats in four of the rooms were gone over with disinfectant and in part of them ink stains were also removed. The windows in some of the rooms were cleaned and considerable wood work scrubbed. It was only a beginning of what needs doing, but was considerable for the number of workers.

Have Smith print it.

HAPPY and Successful may your New Year be, is our sincere wish. The world and Campbell have dealt well with us and naturally we are optimistic and cheerful. We have made many new friends in the past year and the bond of friendship has been strengthened with former ones. Our interests have been for Campbell first, last and always, and will continue to be for some unknown time. We thank all of our good friends for their kindness in increasing our business, which has grown quite materially in the last twelve months and hope to merit its continuance. Campbell has greatly increased in business and popularity in the community and the outlook for the future is most rosy for all. Happy New Year.

SOME of our good people are tearing down that for which they stand, or profess to stand. In their open ridicule of the Ford Peace Party they are only supporting the men, munition makers, who cry for war. It may be that the party will not accomplish that for which it was organized, but they may start the ball rolling. Suppose that instead of the ridicule by the subsidized press and the consequent railery by the general public, that this nation had backed up the plan and to a man called for peace, think of the difference it would have made.

Has it occurred to you, dear reader, that the Christmas season is a most proper one for such a mission. This Mission of the Christ was one of "peace on earth." Mr. Ford's is a similar one, and each was received with a sneer. Christ's Mission is being realized daily, in individual cases, and may the day be hastened when the same will be true of nations.

TO THE WHITE RIBBON

Badge of the better world that is to be;
Emblem of sobriety and purity;
Thou hast a stronger and a surer claim
Than all the flags men reckon first in fame.

Thy streamers never yet were used to shield
Red-handed murder on the bloody field;
Nor ever yet this emblem was unfurled
To justify the ravage of a world.

No mad ambition seeks thee to disguise
Its craft and cruelty from human eyes;
No impious piety with thee would bless
The blasphemy of war's huge wantonness.

Thou symbol of a bloodless battle line,
The stainless emblem of the life divine,
We lift our hearts to thee, and hail the day
When all shall know thee, and admit thy sway.
ROBERT WHITAKER.

Local and Personal Yeomen to hold Public installation

The new fire hose has arrived and a part of it is on display at the Engel Bakery. Don't neglect to read the appropriate sign placed beside it.

Last Sunday "The Searchlights" held their election of officers. Miss Adah Nelson is now Searchlight President; and Miss Catherine Cooper, Sec. and Treasurer.

The Home and School Club will meet Tuesday, Jan. 4, at 3:30 at the Grammar school. Contests for pictures will take place between 1st and 2nd, 3d and 4th, 5th and 6th, 7th and 8th grades.

All children of Junior age, who are eligible, are invited to meet at the Congregational church to see about organizing a Junior Endeavor society. The new Junior Supt. has fine plans for the future.

The Press has received word from Camille Halanick who is now conducting a music school at La Crosse, Wis. He is enjoying his work very much and is having excellent success.

C. D. Harvey of San Jose, who was the organizer of the Orchard City Grange almost thirteen years ago made the Press a pleasant call yesterday. Our readers will hear more of Mr. Harvey later.

The holiday social dance given by the Orchard City Homestead last evening was a great affair. A large number of young people and some not so young were present and all seemed eager to trip the light fantastic to the music furnished by Herold Morton and Joseph Lipari. Several were here from Los Gatos and San Jose, all reporting a fine time. Mr. Carl Anderson acted as floor manager assisted by a splendid reception and floor committee. He desires to congratulate the young people on their modest and refined dancing.

Alumni Notice!

The C. U. H. S. Alumni will hold a reunion and business meeting in the High School Hall at 8 P. M. on New Years Night, Jan. 1st., 1916.

All members are requested to be present to talk over plans for the big reunion in the Summer.

Besides the business meeting games, and refreshments will be served.

All interested please come and come on time.

Admission Free.

Beetles of Prev.

Many beetles are bugs of prey. Predacious insects generally have wonderful appetites. The so called "green fly," otherwise popularly known as "golden eyes," is, as a larva, a tremendous devourer of plant life. It thinks nothing of devouring 100 of them, one after another, at a meal. Thus insects themselves do much to keep the numbers of other insects down. But not even with their aid nor with all our ingenuity in devising methods of destruction could we maintain a successful fight against injurious bugs were it not for the help given by birds.

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

Happy New Year to you one and all. What will you be this year, a Sponge to continually absorb, but not giving, or a Spring, continually giving?

The theme for our New Year's morning service will be "The Anchor of the Soul for 1916." Talk to the boys and girls on "Ropes" in the series of "Ships and Sailing."

Sunday-school and Endeavor as usual. We are planning a possible promotion of the classes at the Sunday-school hour. Last Sunday Fred Bohman's Class received their premium pins for winning the recent class contest. The pins are beauties, new to the Coast and the boys are proud of their "Victory Pins." Raymond Cowles will lead the C. E. Let's have a big crowd out for the first of the year, and set a record.

A Happy New Year's Vesper Service in the evening 7:30 with singing the responsive selections. The Pastor will speak on "Petering" a New Year's message.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who have no other church home to worship with us on this New Year's Sunday. You will do us good, we will do you good.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J.
